THE UNIQUE CAMPAIGN IN OHIO

Republicans Cling to National Issues. The Campbell Men Are Figuring That It Will Be Close.

Columbus, O., November 3.—(Special)—One of the most remarkable campaigns in the history of Ohio comes to a close on Tuesday and now at the wind up the managers on both sides are all at sea as to the result. Ex-Governor Campbell, the democratic standard bearer, has stormed the republican citadel from the stump in almost every county in the state, devoting all his time to state issues. He has charged and furnished specifications as to the absolute corruption in the legislature and he has waged a relentless war against the domination of George B. Cox. The republican bosses in Cincinnati, Jobs of every description were exposed, bribe takers were pilloried and the whole state has been ringing with the infamous story of republican corruption.

So close were the relations of Cox and Fire Alarm Foraker, to whom McKinley and Sherman, the anti-Foraker leaders, had agreed to turn over the spoils of the present campaign in return for the Foraker support for McKinley in his presidential candidacy next year, that they dared not defend the notorious regime of Cox or to attempt to throw him overboard. Collision with the corrupt ring ruler in Cincinnati sealed their lips. They could not meet Campbell's assaults, so they adopted the policy of ignoring them and discussing national issues.

Governor McKinley, in the closing speech of the campaign last night when everybody in the state, republican and democrat alike, was discussing the frightful, sensational and unprecedented exposures Campbell has been making daily, turned his back upon them and with a solemnity that was ludicrous, assured his hearers that there was absolutely no state issue pending.

The cowardly policy of the republican and anti-Foraker leaders has, it is claimed, disgusted their decent following and has aroused the democrats to frenzied exultation. Besides, many of the best friends of McKinley and Sherman firmly believe that the deal with Foraker for the solid support of the delegation next year will be carried out in good faith and some of them are openly counseling the knifing or cutting as the only safe way of putting Foraker out of the way forever. No attempt is made to conceal the bitter hatred between the factions, even among those who are ostensibly working in harmony to carry out the deal. In private they chant the "Rimbecko," the song of the vendetta.

Predictables as to the result of this remarkable campaign seem useless. Democratic speakers who have come into the state from abroad say they have never seen such enthusiasm as Campbell has aroused. The people fairly idolize him.

Senator Hill was so impressed that he stated before he left here that Campbell was the greatest stumper he had ever seen and one of the best democrats. "If he is a candidate for president next year," said he, "I will not be."

How much this democratic enthusiasm will avail on Tuesday remains to be seen. Calculation cannot be made on last year, when the democratic vote slumped 125,000 and the republican majority was 137,000. Normally the state is about 20,000 republican. The democrats are well organized and expect to get out a full vote. Conservative estimates agree that the republican disaffection will amount to 20,000 votes. Upon this and a full democratic vote, the managers base their hope of victory. The republicans are unquestionably sacred, but they pretend to be bound to admit to the American Railway Union.

In regard to his plans for the future, President Deane says that after the expiration of his sentence in the Woodstock jail and the meeting in Chicago November 2d he will come to this city, where he will be engaged with two coaches and a parlor car. The cars destined entirely for the campaign. The accident seems to be one of those which are hardly avoidable. Great excitement prevailed in the vicinity for a time after the accident. That no mortal fatality occurred seems to be due to a kind providence, as the wreck was one of the worst of its kind that has occurred in this vicinity for many years.

ASKING FOR THEIR HANGING.

Petition of Citizens of Kansas To Have Two Murderers Executed.

To Put Out the Fires That Are Raging in Indiana.

Laporte, Ind., November 3.—The fighting of fire in the Kankakee region continued to the last yesterday probably will be no more destruction. The entire Kankakee region is a waste of ashes with here and there the partially burned carcass of a cow or horse to tell of the fury of the flames. The fire is smoldering and the danger now is from a high wind driving brands to territory which has not been burned out. The villages of Hanna, Wanatah, Davis and Laclede are believed to be out of danger. Prayers were offered in the village churches today for rain.

MISS FLAGLER DEFENDED.

Davie Thorne Says the Shooting Was an Accident.

New York, November 3.—(Special)—Miss Alice French (Octave Thorne) the ward of the Flagler family, is the guest of Mrs. James McLean, the Hotel San Remo. Miss French went down to Sandy Hook yesterday on a cutter, where she met General Flagler, who is here on a tour of inspection.

The indications are that the legislators, which will elect Brice's successor, will be democratic if Campbell is elected. Brice has spent a great deal of money in the state districts, but he is unpopular in the state and his candidacy has undoubtedly handicapped Campbell in the fight he has made.

The story that Miss Flagler is heartbroken and wept when she heard that she was the facts in the case, both as to the shooting of the boy in Washington and the feelings of the young woman who took a human life.

Sudden Death of a Convict.

Columbus, O., November 3.—(Special)—Samuel Warren, a United States prisoner from Florida, received December 9, 1894, to serve life and a half years for robbing the mails, fell dead with heart disease in the prison hospital tonight.

"Shortly after it was her unhappy fate that Ernest Green—not a hoodlum, but a bright little fellow, the son of a highly respected colored government messenger and some other boys, came along, and the crowd made an onslaught on the peers. A mad notion seized the boys to shoot again, not in the air, so that the bullet might fall on some one, but into the empty road, aiming carefully. She is a good shot, though near sighted, and accustomed to fire arms in her life.

"She shot twice, and one of the bullets was deflected on a stone fence, hitting young Green. When she found what had happened she had the boy brought into the house and did everything possible. It was nothing more than an accident, and the poor boy had been cruelly wronged by some of her crew."

"It is a poor return a grateful country is offering a brave soldier, this claimer that his daughter should be sent to prison before examining any evidence in her favor. It would be well if the self-constituted champion of Ernest Green should listen to the boy's story and mother. The father has said many times it is convinced that Miss Flagler did not mean to injure his son, and that she had suffered and would suffer all her life for the mistake, and that to persecute her would not bring Ernest back to life."

HAVE INSPECTED THE CAMPS

And the Condition of Affairs at Cole City Will Be Made Known.

Charleston, S. C., November 3.—(Special)—The prison committee appointed by the Georgia solons to make the annual inspection of the state's convict camps, looked over the entire system of reformatory institutions yesterday.

The members of the law commission, a whole, were unanimous in saying that the convicts worked in the iron mines at Rising Fawn, and in the Durham and Chickamauga coal banks, are well cared for, properly guarded, well fed and clothed.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., November 3.—Dan Stuart left for Mexico this morning in company with Zy Wheelock, of the defunct Florida Athletic Association. He had a long talk with Julian before he left relative to the proposition to pull off the fight at Juarez, across from El Paso, on November 17. Stuart said:

"The situation is this: I have had confidential agents in Mexico for two weeks and their reports are uniformly favorable, but I have been fooled so often by the reports of others that I am determined to take no chance this time. I am going to see the governor of the Mexican state of Chihuahua, in which Juarez is situated. He has said to my agents that the fight can come off without interference. I am going to get his consent in black and white. If I get it the fight will be a go. If I don't get it I shall throw up the whole thing. I have been on a dead card for nearly a year now, and I don't propose to blow in $25,000 more on another one."

Stuart also said that the big annual bull fights in Juarez begin on the 13th of November and last till the 20th. If the governor proved amiable the prize fight would take place in the bull ring on the 19th instant.

Julian said he had signed a preliminary agreement with Stuart for the proposed match. He also said that he had been putting up the $10,000 for the Juarez fight. Stuart had agreed to make good personally the $2,500 which the Florida club had gained to pay Fitzsimmons in case the fight could not be pulled off in Dallas or Hot Springs.

MUST BE BORN AGAIN

Mr. Moody Preached On the Subject of Regeneration.

SIX THOUSAND WERE PRESENT

Two Eloquent Sermons Were Delivered Yesterday at the Tabernacle.

SEVERAL HUNDRED WERE TURNED AWAY

Services Will Be Held Every Evening at 7:30 O'Clock at the Corner of Williams and Cain Streets.

Hundreds were turned away from the Moody tabernacle yesterday afternoon.

The vast auditorium, with a seating capacity of nearly 5,000, was crowded at 2:30 o'clock, thirty minutes before the hour for the commencement of the services.

The people flocked to hear the great evangelist and packed the tabernacle. People stood in the aisle and listened through the open windows. It was without doubt one of the largest audiences that has ever gathered to listen to a sermon.

Just before 3 o'clock Mr. Moody announced that a song service would be held and requested every one present to join in the singing of the songs.

Songs are very close to prayer. Almost simultaneous with the announcement of good. You hear people say, 'Why, I have been baptized; and I was born again' when I was baptized.' They believe that because they were baptized into the church, they were baptized into the kingdom of God. I tell you that it is utterly impossible. You may be baptized into the church and yet not be baptized into the Son of God. Baptism is all right in its place. God forbid that I should say anything against it. But if you put that in the place of regeneration—in the place of the new birth—it is a terrible mistake. You cannot be baptized into the kingdom of God—except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God. If anyone reads on this rest his hopes on anything else—on any other foundation—I pray that God may sweep it away.

"Another class say, 'I go to the Lord's supper; I partake of the sacrament,' increased ordinance. Jesus hath said that as often as ye do it you commemorate His death. Yet, that is no being born again; that is not passing from death unto life.

"There is a class of men who say that special religious meetings are very good for a certain class of people. They would be very good if you could get the drunkard or there, or get the gambler there, or get the vicious people there—that would be a great deal of good. But we do not need to be converted." Except a man be born again he cannot see the kingdom of God."

"But I can imagine some one saying, 'what am I to do? I cannot create life; I certainly cannot save myself.' You certainly cannot, and we do not claim that you can. We tell you it is utterly impossible to make a man better without Christ. But that is what men are trying afternoon he mainly emphasized the fact that regeneration was required and was absolutely necessary.

Mr. Moody said last night that it was an easy matter to be regenerated. The umbrella is only to trust the Lord and all things would be added.

In John 3:14-15 we read: As Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness even so must the Son of Man be lifted up; that whosoever believes in Him should not perish, but have eternal life." Whosoever believes in Him should not wait for God to do anything more.

In this chapter we are told how men are to be saved, namely, by Him who was lifted up on the cross. Some men complain and say that it is very unnatural for the snake to be responsible for the sin of a man six thousand years ago. If a man thinks he is going to answer God in that way, I tell you it will not do him any good. If you are lost it will not be on account of Adam's sin.

Let me illustrate, and perhaps you will be better able to understand it. Suppose a man dying of consumption says, 'I inherited from my father or mother, I did not get the disease by any fault of my own—by any neglect of my health. I inherited it, let me suppose. A friend happens to come along; he looks at me and says: "Ten years ago I was as far gone, as you are now, by the physician to treat, but I took this medicine and it cured me. I am perfectly well; look at me." I say that it is a very strange case. "Yes, it may be strange, but it is a fact. This medicine cured me. Take this medicine and it will kill you."

"Well," I say, "I should like to believe you, but that is contrary to my reason."

He says, "Take this medicine and it returns with another friend and that one testifies to the same thing; I am still dying, but go he goes away and brings in another friend, and they both testify to the same thing. My friend then hands me the medicine, I dash it to the ground; I do not believe in this saving

MRS. HOWE'S SERMON

The Famous Woman Preached at the Unitarian Church.

CHRISTIAN LIFE NECESSITIES

Talked Ably on the Three Important Things.

HAD A VAST AUDIENCE TO HEAR HER

Mrs. Howe Held the Attention of Her Hearers from Start to Finish.

Mrs. Fairfield's Last Night.

One of the ablest and most famous women in America occupied an Atlanta pulpit yesterday morning.

Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, famed the country over as a writer and thinker, preached at the Unitarian church at the 11 o'clock service. She had a congregation that was limited only by the capacity of the church.

The subject of her interesting talk was "The Three Necessities of the Christian Life," and she handled the subject in an able and thoughtful manner.

Tell me now come that they might have it and that they might have it more abundantly."

"The magnitude of this subject will oblige me to confine what I shall say of it in very definite limits. I shall speak of the power of religion in the life under three heads: viz: Gratitude, contentment and hope. The first and simplest of these is gratitude; contentment is next; and hope is the third. Contentment is next to God himself accepted the creation when it was accomplished, and saw that all things were good, so should we, in taking account of what we may be called upon to do and to suffer, begin with this act of recognition and thankfully accept at God's hands the gift of this world, and then let us turn my mind to the ancient Egyptian and Greek sculptors in which the act of worship is represented by a picture which stands with wings extended as if to receive the good things asked for. In approaching the Father of Spirits let us hold out these open hands to signify that we receive all from him. Let us feel a gladness in our hearts when we enter the doors of the church and hear the boom of the organ, and a little later the first phrases of the pastor's prayer. This sudden life of exhilaration which I experience comes from the general thanksgiving, and the sense it gives me that so many of my fellow saints and martyrs are glad in the Lord. The great good of the world appears to me in the story of the New Testament of the ten lepers who prayed to Christ for deliverance, and were cleansed by His divine power. Nine of them seemed to have taken this great boon in a very prosaic manner, and with no acknowledgment of the benefit conferred. But the tenth was himself carried from the outcast to a member of officers recognized in the Christian church.

The services were very solemn and were conducted with the communion service, which was partaken of by a very large and deeply impressed audience. President McKinley was in the city yesterday and leaves this afternoon for his home and college work in Lexington, Ky. Our city feels honored by his presence.

Eleven persons were ordained, one to the office of an evangelist, two to the work of elders and eleven to the pastoral ministry.

These eleven were chosen to represent the three classes of officers recognized in the Christian church.

THAT FILLS HIS POCKETBOOK

Sells Bibles to Negroes with All the Pictures of Angels Printed Black. Does a Big Business.

Montgomery, Ala., November 3.—There is a smart yankee here who is making a barrel of money by a little work and a lot of ingenuity. He is a book agent. He came from Connecticut and has been selling books cheap to negroes. He soon came to appreciate the enthusiasm of the negro in matters of religion. He found that in all the illustrated Bibles the pictures of the angels were in white, and he conceived the idea of having a Bible made for the colored people to overflowing with pictures of negro angels. The books cost him $1.00 apiece, but he placed the first large shipment at $3 each, payable $2.50 cash, the balance in monthly payments. He is selling the Bibles as fast as he can get them delivered.

The changes agreed upon seem to be as follows:

Abolish the board of public works and increase the mayor's salary from $2,000 to $3,000 per annum.

Make the mayor chairman of council.

Limit the term of mayor to two terms of two years.

Make the mayor a member of the police and fire commissioners and add to those commissioners the heads of the police and fire committees of council.

It is understood that a bill embodying these changes will be introduced in the general assembly next session, and will meet with practically no opposition, as the three representatives on the senator and the three members of the house of commons are all in agreement on the same.

A Meeting Proposed.

There is a rumor current today that a grand meeting will be brought tomorrow, seeking to test the present city registration law.

This will create a great sensation and call for a bally fight in the courts.

The Constitution learns that two of the most prominent boys in the University of Alabama, Sewanee and Auburn, Fred Morris, right halfback, who was injured in the last game with North Carolina, will not be able to play in the Sewanee game on the 16th, but will be ready when Auburn is to be tackled. The boys are full of enthusiasm and ready to meet Yale Christmas day in Atlanta.

Work Progressing Steadily.

The new electric power plant now in process of construction at Mitchell's bridge is progressing admirably.

A vast number of workmen are steadily at work on the dam across Middle river, which will soon be completed.

Everything is in readiness for the machinery, on the instant, the date named in the contract, when the machinery is to be delivered on the ground.

An Approaching Marriage.

A marriage of interest to Athenians is announced to occur in a few days. The contracting parties are Mr. and Mrs. George Clegg, of this city, and Miss Julia Lawrence Wilson, of Bairdstown, and the wedding will be solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Wilson, of Bairdstown, Ga., at 9 o'clock a.m. November 14th. It will be a quiet home affair. Miss Clegg is a young business woman of Athens, and her husband-to-be is one of Georgia's most charming and accomplished young ladies.

Owns the Electric Plant.

The city of Athens is now experimenting in the operation of its own light plant.

A few nights since the plant was turned over to the city by the former owners, who sold it to the city for $50,000.

The incandescent plant is now owned by Mr. R. L. Bloomfield, president of the Athens Manufacturing Company.

The city government is satisfied that the experiment of municipal ownership will prove a success.

Municipal Politics.

The city democratic and orderly for this season of the year two important law men, not pending in the state or county of Mississippi, are emerging the attention of the public and much speculation

as to the final outcome is indulged in.

These suits are the city of Columbus vs.

the Columbus Railroad Company and the crews of the cars.

L. Lowenthal, Kern &amp; Loeb, and Co.

In the former case the city prays the court to enjoin the railroad company from collecting fares on their cars until a trial of rates has been presented, and had not, with the approval of the city council and that the railroad be further forced to level its tracks with the streets according to the requirements of the city ordinance.

The city alleges many other grievances against the railroad for violations of its charter.

A petition for injunction was filed above with answers, etc., were presented before Judge

Butt in chambers yesterday, but by agreement

the case was continued until the first Monday in December next.

The action of the court in the abolition several weeks ago of the transfer system, which was virtually an increase of the fare from some points to others. This caused a great kick on the part of citizens and the council took up the matter rather heatedly, and had the city's first certain restitution.

The case is somewhat complicated and involves a receivership and an order to sell the goods and chattels, books of account, etc., the property of Bulwer &amp; Co., which it is alleged that the defendants refused to do, and they were yesterday arraigned before Judge Butt for contempt of court for their refusal to obey the order.

A great many goods and chattels of Bulwer &amp; Co. were found in the possession of Kern &amp; Loeb, Kaufman &amp; Co.

A bill was filed by Mr. George

Wright, Washington, Ga.

The property was held by Receiver R. S. Howard and approved by Judge N. L. Hutchins of the Western circuit. Mr. Lyndon will move his family to Athens and will at once start these plants in operation.

The Atheneum exchange is now a well-known established affair.

The office is in the study of Shakespeare.

Mr. A. L. Hull, who presided over the debate, decided in favor of the affirmative.

In addition to the debate an amateur musical trio was rendered by Miss Neil

McGregor, Miss Anna Kipp and

Mr. A. L. Hull. Miss Maud Beckwith opened the square reel in "Julius Caesar."

The show is worth several cents.

The performances have been so good that the audience will be sure to return.

Some people must be naturally cruel, or they would not make themselves give way to the important living questions of today.

A new generation is on deck and the genuine American sentiment dominates. No man and no party can hope to win on a platform which threatens to divide the sections, or place one of them under bayonet rule. General Harrison understands this and he seems to be very willing to let the dead past take care of itself. He wisely modifies his old views and shows a determination to keep up with the procession.

Preston Assists the Silver.

The way to increase and make permanent the prosperity of the people is to largely increase the existing quantity of standard money. No country has ever had or ever can have too much standard money—money of final payment. What does Mr. Preston, the director of the mint, mean when he tells us in his funny reports that the production of gold is increasing? This has been the burden of his reports for many months. He tells us that the production of gold is very rapidly increasing. He puts in figures and estimates that honest statisticians are compelled to question. What is his object?

Does he intend to convey the idea that the increased production of gold will make the people more prosperous? If so, how? The prosperity of the producers of the country depends on a higher average of prices. Those who are favorable to the free coinage of silver have been contending that only a considerable addition to the amount of the money of final payment would accomplish this result. The fact that Mr. Preston, an avowed goldbug, should be catering to this idea in his reports is a little bit astonishing, to say the least. He gives his whole case away.

The contention of the goldbugs is that the quantity of money of final payment will not have the effect of increasing prices and values. They say that the volume of basic money has nothing whatever to do with the matter. Why, then, should the director of the mint, an avowed goldbug, be interested in showing that the production of gold is very rapidly increasing?

What Mr. Preston fails to note is the fact that, in spite of the increased production of gold, we export more than we import. The great bulk of our gold goes abroad at the invitation of European dealers, who desire to reap the benefits of the premium that accumulates faster upon foreign exchange.

We talk glibly about "parity" and about the world's money, but at the same time we see little bits of paper at a premium over gold that ranges from 5 to 6 per cent.

This is a very serious matter if we were disposed to take a common-sense view of it. "Parity" is a very good excuse for the raids that the money power has made upon the gold reserve, but "parity" is not in it a little bit when we come to exporting our gold.

But the question arises, if "parity" is not good enough for Sunday, why should it be enforced on Monday?

The largest general circulation.

It goes into more homes.

And is read by more people.

That can be claimed by any other dozen newspapers in the south.

The fact on file with Uncle Sam's post-masters:

It is shown by the express company's records:

And is attested by the newsdealers who control it.

"I sell three times as many Constitutions as I do of any other paper."—John M. Miller, Atlanta newsdealer.

"I sell more Constitutions than I do of any other paper."—T. C. Parker, general railroad news agent.

Postmaster Fox is at liberty to show The Constitution's postal payments to any one caring to inquire.

THIS IS THE SOLID TRUTH!

Harrison in a New Role.

All of us are familiar with Benjamin Harrison as a sectional partisan and as the champion of the force bill, but he now appears in the new role of a genuine American, and if he sticks to it he will make a hit.

The other night, at Indianapolis, when the ex-president introduced General Gordon to an audience he expressed pleasure at the disappearance of sectionalism and old war issues and congratulated the people upon being one in their love for the flag, their loyalty to the union and their solid front against every foreign foe that threatens us.

We are tonight asking of all the states under the flag, loved by all the people. We are cherishing no revenges; we are tonight asking only this question of any man: Does he love the constitution and the flag? And this question our distinguished men have already answered. There was some doubt at first, but the words that fell from the rosy lips which once he so fondly kissed have sealed his doom.

Bill Nye's Mishap.

In Brooklyn, the other night, Bill Nye failed to make his appearance at the hall where he was announced to lecture and his manager stated that he was ill. He had resorted to stimulants as a remedy for insomnia and this had unfortunately caused him to become intoxicated at Paterson, N. J., where some roughs had rotten-egged him. "Mr. Nye," said the manager, "had had a fall, the same to which all human beings are liable, and he is at home broken-brown. In fact, he has not the courage to face an audience."

It is impossible to read this statement and then laugh over the brutal wit which some of the newspapers are indulging in over the humorist's misfortune. Eugene Field takes the right view of it when he says that Mr. Nye is a very temperate man, but he is also a sick man, and if he was overcome once in his life by a stimulant, taken as a medicine, that is no reason why he should be insulted or lose his place in the public's esteem.

Some people must be naturally cruel, and when it comes from a republican leader who made the force bill his special hobby we cannot help regarding it as an encouraging sign. The old political leaders on both sides are beginning to realize the fact that the old war passions and sectional prejudices must give way to the important living questions of today.

A Man and a Woman.

That must have been a dramatic scene in a Philadelphia courtroom, the other day, when Holmes, the wholesale murderer, stood face to face with the young wife whom he had basely inveigled into a bigamous marriage.

The fearless man of iron looked upon this sweet-faced girl and broke down for the first time. The wronged wife drew every heart to her as she told her sad story. Slender, delicate and refined, she looked the very picture of tender innocence. Her cheeks wore a slight rosy flush, contrasting prettily with her bright flaxen hair. Her dainty lips trembled nervously, and her dreamy eyes were downcast. Not once did she look at the prisoner.

Her testimony connected Holmes with the Pielzel murder, but was not conclusive. When she had finished her story Holmes regained his nerve and cross-examined her. Still she did not look at him. She answered his questions and made one or two admissions that were favorable to him.

The crowd in the courtroom watched the two with breathless interest. It was evident to all that the murderer still loved the woman with passionate devotion, and it was plain that in spite of her wrongs she could not entirely crush her old love for him.

No woman ever had to undergo a more trying ordeal, and the fair, frail little thing almost fainted when the examination closed. But if her mental torture was unendurable, what must have been the agony of her felon husband?

The fact that her marriage was a bogus one made her available as a witness. If it had not been for the proof of Holmes's marriage to two or three women who were living when he married pretty Georgiana Yoho she would not have been forced to take the witness stand against him. Possibly the words that fell from the rosy lips which once he so fondly kissed have sealed his doom.

He had resorted to stimulants as a remedy for insomnia and this had unfortunately caused him to become intoxicated at Paterson, N. J., where some roughs had rotten-egged him. "Mr. Nye," said the manager, "had had a fall, the same to which all human beings are liable, and he is at home broken-brown. In fact, he has not the courage to face an audience."

It is impossible to read this statement and then laugh over the brutal wit which some of the newspapers are indulging in over the humorist's misfortune. Eugene Field takes the right view of it when he says that Mr. Nye is a very temperate man, but he is also a sick man, and if he was overcome once in his life by a stimulant, taken as a medicine, that is no reason why he should be insulted or lose his place in the public's esteem.

Some people must be naturally cruel, and when it comes from a republican leader who made the force bill his special hobby we cannot help regarding it as an encouraging sign. The old political leaders on both sides are beginning to realize the fact that the old war passions and sectional prejudices must give way to the important living questions of today.

A new generation is on deck and the genuine American sentiment dominates.

No man and no party can hope to win on a platform which threatens to divide the sections, or place one of them under bayonet rule. General Harrison understands this and he seems to be very willing to let the dead past take care of itself. He wisely modifies his old views and shows a determination to keep up with the procession.

Preston Assists the Silver.

The way to increase and make permanent the prosperity of the people is to largely increase the existing quantity of standard money. No country has ever had or ever can have too much standard money—money of final payment. What does Mr. Preston, the director of the mint, mean when he tells us in his funny reports that the production of gold is increasing? This has been the burden of his reports for many months. He tells us that the production of gold is very rapidly increasing. He puts in figures and estimates that honest statisticians are compelled to question. What is his object?

Does he intend to convey the idea that the increased production of gold will make the people more prosperous? If so, how? The prosperity of the producers of the country depends on a higher average of prices. Those who are favorable to the free coinage of silver have been contending that only a considerable addition to the amount of the money of final payment would accomplish this result. The fact that Mr. Preston, an avowed goldbug, should be catering to this idea in his reports is a little bit astonishing, to say the least. He gives his whole case away.

The contention of the goldbugs is that the quantity of money of final payment will not have the effect of increasing prices and values. They say that the volume of basic money has nothing whatever to do with the matter. Why, then, should the director of the mint, an avowed goldbug, be interested in showing that the production of gold is very rapidly increasing?

What Mr. Preston fails to note is the fact that, in spite of the increased production of gold, we export more than we import. The great bulk of our gold goes abroad at the invitation of European dealers, who desire to reap the benefits of the premium that accumulates faster upon foreign exchange.

We talk glibly about "parity" and about the world's money, but at the same time we see little bits of paper at a premium over gold that ranges from 5 to 6 per cent.

This is a very serious matter if we were disposed to take a common-sense view of it. "Parity" is a very good excuse for the raids that the money power has made upon the gold reserve, but "parity" is not in it a little bit when we come to exporting our gold.

But the question arises, if "parity" is not good enough for Sunday, why should it be enforced on Monday?

Cotton Manufacture in the South.

As our readers may have observed, we have been talking somewhat unkindly lately about cotton manufacture in the south. We have not entered upon the subject yet, with the exception of a few remarks in the last issue of the "Cotton Manufacture in the South." The editor of the "Cotton Manufacture in the South" seems to be positive in his statement that there is no cotton manufacture in the south.

He is right, but he is also wrong. There is cotton manufacture in the south, and it is not only a little bit, but a great deal.

with the prospect of large excitement, big crowds and a series of special features in store during the week.

The passing of the wet weather and the coming fall days will bring out the people of the city to the grounds and largely increase the floating element of transient visitors from the north.

There are many important occasions on the programme for the week. This morning in the woman's building the dramatic congress will assemble and literature, music

The CHrysanthemum SHOW.

LOVELY FLOWERS WILL BE ON EXHIBITION.

The Show Will Be Held November
12th and the Proceeds Will Be Devoted to Charity.

A national chrysanthemum show will be held in the hall of the Young Men's Christian Association November 12th and perhaps it is not yet in thorough shape, but Senor Gonzalez, the commissioner from that country, has a force of hands at work and will have all kinds of objects in place by the day of opening. The interest in the show will not be in the exercises alone. The exhibit itself will be of passing interest to those who have been invited, as it contains some of the most unique objects at the fair.

The proceeds of the show will be donated to charitable institutions. Other flowers will be displayed and the arrangements have all been completed. Mr. George M.
Bradford, chairman and manager of the exposition, will give his personal attention to the arrangement of the flowers and the decoration of the hall. The fair will open Tuesday morning, November 12th, and will continue every day and night through the week. Much interest has already been manifested in the show.

The chrysanthemum is the popular flower of the season and is in great demand here at this time. It is cultivated most successfully by the local florists and they will represent the result of the show carefully.

The following ladies of the city will act as presidents of the show:

to Atlanta to make arrangements for the celebration of Pennsylvania day at the exposition.

vember 1st and will be participated in by the Pennsylvania commission, consisting of thirty-four members, the governor and staff and several military companies of that state.

Governor Hastings, the Lieutenant governor and the legislative committee will be present.

This increase is made to yield to the public demand and the increasing crowds.
The same spirit the railroads and the exposition company have met the people and have announced half rates after 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

After a 25 cent admission fee will be charged after 5 o'clock and the roads will give a 5 cent fare.

Now for the Cattle Show.

This morning the live stock show will be opened. All day yesterday large shipments of cows, hogs and sheep were received at the grounds and the animals driven in the exposition.

about two hundred members of the governor's party at the Kimball house. The party will come by Chickamauga park, where exercises will be given.

Secretaries of the various departments will be present and will address the exercises the Pennsylvania will take in the exposition.

a full military parade. Two companies from Pittsburgh with others from other parts of the state, Governor Hastings and staff, and several local companies will be in line. It

Adieu to the Schools.

Last week was notable on account of the large attendance of school children from all parts of the south. Yesterday most of these took their departure and outgoing trains were filled with batches of chattering girls and cadets in gay uniforms. It is expected that Alabama will come this week with a large supply of school children.
State Superintendent Turner is making an active canvass of the state and will bring over a big number of children from his state.
